

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An actuator includes an intervention member being interposed between an object lens and a bobbin for supporting the object lens and different from the bobbin 5 in thermal conductivity, thereby preventing an occurrence of degradation of the lens characteristic of the object lens caused by unevenness of the temperature distribution in the object lens due to the heat generated by a coil.